Dedication

We, the Class of 1936, appreciatively dedicate
this volume of the "Yellow Jacket" to our most helpful and earnest
librarian and teacher,
Mrs. M. M. Moss,
who, throughout her career,
has always gained the confidence of her pupils
because of her painstaking and critical thought given to each one.

MIDDLESBORO AS A HOME

VALEDICTORY ADDRESS—MARGARET KENDRICK

The topic I am to discuss should be one of the greatest importance to every citizen of Middlesboro, because each of us should want to find out if Middlesboro is an ideal home, and if it is not, how we can make it such.

In order to discuss this subject it is necessary to set up certain standards or ideals, such as the following, which every town or city should strive to attain:

1. An ideal city has hard-working, congenial churches.
2. An ideal city is healthful.
3. An ideal city has conveniences and comforts for all, such as police protection and control.
4. An ideal city has free education for both children and adults.
5. An ideal city has adequate recreational opportunities and civic beauty.
6. An ideal city is composed of co-operative citizens.

Let us examine our city to see which of these ideals it lives up to and which are lacking.

The church is the most important standard of this list, since a group of hard-working churches signify a good city. A city made up of conscientious church members would invariably be an ideal town, since those members would set about bringing their district up to the other standards. One of the best things to be said about Middlesboro is that her churches and their members are friendly toward each other, as well as toward their new-comers: and that they realize the value of unified action. Through their social gatherings, such as the church suppers, young people's parties and class meetings, they provide means of entertainment in addition to being the spiritual background of the community.

Since the churches provide for the spiritual needs, our health system should provide for our physical needs. The spread of disease in our city is prevented by the required inoculation of school children, by the quarantine of all dangerous diseases, and by our pure water supply. Besides having two hospitals and a number of efficient doctors, we have on the lookout to prevent diseases at all times, the school nurse and the Red Cross nurse. But, nearly everyone has heard it said that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and the greatest step toward the prevention of disease that Middlesboro could take would be the elimination or purification of the canal. That canal makes Middlesboro a most ideal home—for germs and mosquitoes—and it is not even on the outskirts of town, but in the very center of it—a menace not only to the city's health, but also to her beauty. With the absence of this one marring feature, and with the cooperation of all the citizens to keep her clean, Middlesboro would be a healthful city, for the air is pure, there is little of the smoke and other aggravations often found in a place of this size, and everyone has the opportunity for outdoor exercise.

The question of "conveniences and comforts for all" is an indefinite one, since the term convenience covers such a great array of ideas, such as electricity; a good water supply; bus, train, and taxi service; and means of communication, such as the telephone, telegraph, and postal system. To this list Middlesboro complies as well as to the question of good police protection and control. The wide variety and quality and the convenient location of our shops might also be considered under this heading. Then, too, would any community be a very comfortable home if the taxes or living expenses were greatly above the average? If this is the case, the citizens of Middlesboro are comfortable, since our taxes are on an average for the state of Kentucky.

It seems that very little, if anything can be said against the Middlesboro educational system. For children in convenient locations, there are five grade schools, one high school, and one colored school, while by the next school year, a junior high school will be built. In addition to this, Middlesboro has several adult educational schools, in various parts of the town; and also a Carnegie Library containing over 6000 volumes. Does not this fulfill the fourth requisite for a good home—that it have free education for both children and adults?

Although Middlesboro does have a good educational system, her recreational opportunities for young people are limited to a theater and a few places for picnicking, hiking, and like outdoor pleasures. Middlesboro's greatest need is a supervised park and playground. The Bartlett-Rhodes Park is being improved, and if, after the improvements have been made, a careful supervisor is placed in charge, it will increase Middlesboro's rating nearly 100%. Our school is lacking in playground equipment, because there has been no way to continuously watch it after the school hours and over the week-ends. This should show one need of supervision, while a much better atmosphere will prevail around a supervisor, as well as a greater enjoyment of the recreational furnishings. This park would not only add to Middlesboro's recreational opportunities, but to her civic beauty as well.

In real physical beauty, Middlesboro has a high rating, being surrounded by beautiful scenery, and attractively planned. But can any city be beautiful that is not neat? Are signboards beautiful? By hiding our city's beauty behind billboards, and by letting trash collect in places near the town, we have detracted greatly from our town's natural beauty, since neatness is essential to beauty.

The last qualification—cooperation—is entirely dependent on you and other citizens of Middlesboro. With cooperation, Middlesboro can become an ideal city; without it, she will gain nothing. In our various civic clubs, such as the Kiwanis, Rotary, Business and Professional Woman's Club, and others, an excellent spirit of cooperation for improving our city is shown.

And so, it depends on the citizens of Middlesboro. With our cooperation, Middlesboro can become an ideal city, as well as a perfect home.

We, the members of the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-Six wish to express our gratitude and appreciation toward our parents and friends for the possibilities we have had in Middlesboro. Many of us were born here, and have had the opportunity of attending the Middlesboro schools all of our lives; while others have only lived here and attended this school for a few years. But we all appreciate the advantages we have had in living and being educated in Middlesboro, and we realize that it has meant a sacrifice on the part of many of our parents in giving us our education. We shall try to repay you by becoming useful citizens, not only of Middlesboro, but of the state and nation, and we shall strive to uphold the standards that our fathers and their fathers have established with such a great price.

HUMOR

Eugene R.—“It seems that you can’t get out unless your mother wants to go along.”

Betty Jo—“Well, what about it?”

Eugene R.—“She never wants to go anywhere.”

—x—

Glenn W. (after talking about the new ship, “Queen Mary”)—“Miss Harris, why do they call the first voyage of a ship the maiden voyage?”

Miss Harris—“??? (She wouldn’t answer, but went on with other questions.)”

—x—

Frances C.—“All I do is worry about Virgil and Cicero.”

Wilma B.—“Yea, I know what kind of Virgil it is and it’s not Aenid’s Virgil, but Mr. Medcalf’s Virgil.”

—x—

Howard J.—“Yes, I have had some terrible disappointments but none stands out over the years like the one that came to me when I was a boy.”

Clara T.—“And what was that?”

Howard J.—“When I was a boy, I crawled under a tent to see a circus and discovered it was a revival meeting.”

—x—

Bush Hog B. (who had just seen his home team go down in defeat)—“Say, umpire, where’s your dog?”

Case T.—“Dog? I have no dog.”

Bush Hog B.—“Well, you’re the first blind man I ever saw who didn’t have a dog.”

—x—

Miss Harris—“Herndon, who was Anne Boloyne?”

Herndon H.—“Anne Boloyne was a flat iron.”

Miss Harris—“What on earth do you mean?”

Herndon H.—“Well, it says here in the history book, ‘Henry having disposed of Catherine pressed his suit with Anne Boloyne.’”

Tennyson M.—“Call me a taxi.”

Weasel B.—“O. K., you’re a taxi.”

—x—

Mrs. Gloster—“Sandy, I hear you have been most recalcitrant.”

Sandy—“Be yourself, Annie, you’ve been doing cross-word puzzles again.”

—x—

Charles—“My uncle is like me. Makes witty remarks half the time.”

Jaunita—“Yeah, sort of half-witted.”

—x—

Mr. Hamlett—“Now when I was in college, but there, all the real men are gone now.”

Miss Doak—“You really think so?”

Mr. Hamlett—“I’m sure of it. All gone into the teaching profession.”

—x—

Miss Tolman—“What did Lucifer have to do when he was thrown out of heaven into the burning hell?”

Billy Covey—“Shovel coal.”

—x—

Bank Manager—“You will need to be identified, madam.”

Mrs. Gloster—“My friend here will identify me.”

Bank Manager—“But I don’t know her, madam.”

Mrs. Gloster—“How silly of me. Of course, I’ll introduce you.”

—x—

Jack—“Where did you get the girl friend?”

Bert—“Well, one day I met her in a revolving door and we have been going around together ever since.”

—x—

Carl—“Do you believe that kissing is unhealthy?”

Malissa—“I couldn’t say — er — ah. I’ve never been.”

Carl—“You’ve never been kissed?”

Malissa—“Never been sick.”

—x—

Jake D.—“Shall we waltz?”

Mary H.—“It’s all the same to me.”

Jake D.—“Yes, I’ve noticed that.”

We've not yet turned the bend of life
 Where we will meet both joy and strife;
 But what care we for bends in roads,
 Or what care we for heavy loads?
 We've reached this milestone in our course,
 With all our might and strength and
 force,
 We've plodded upward on our way,

And won our battles day by day.
 Yet, when we part from this gre :
 throng
 To wend our way to right or wrong,
 May each remember that his goal
 Is to advance with all his soul
 Until he's reached the utmost heights,
 To where his goal is won by rights.

DEBATING CLUB

COACH	D. L. Redd
PRESIDENT	Bert Paynter
VICE-PRESIDENT	Henry Ralston
SECRETARY-TREASURER	Herbert Silvers
SERGEANT-AT-ARMS	Bill Bingham

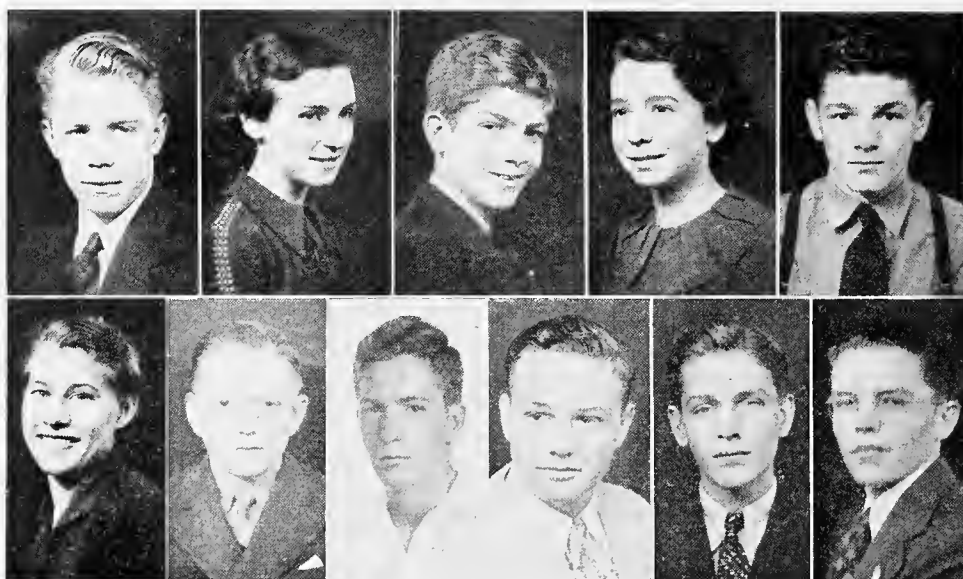

There are about sixteen members in this year's club. The members of the team were Lee Farris and Henry Ralston, first speakers; Bert Paynter, second speaker; and Herbert Silvers, third speaker. The team defeated Pineville's team in the finals of the 13th District Tournament in Pineville. In the State Debate Tournament in Lexington, Middlesboro defeated Winchester in the semi-final preliminaries and lost to Augusta Tilghman High School of Paducah, Ky., the State Champions, in the semi-finals. Middlesboro's team is rated as one of the four best debate teams in Kentucky. Herbert Silvers, in the District Tournament, won the honor of being the best debater in the contest.

ORCHESTRA

DIRECTOR—V. T. MEDCALF

The Orchestra of M. H. S. was organized by Mr. Medcalf, the director, in October, 1935. It is composed of eighteen members, students from both Junior and Senior High School. As usual, the violins compose the majority of the instrumentation. This orchestra is about the only school orchestra in Southeastern Kentucky. In the District Contest in Pineville, the Orchestra was awarded "superior" rating, and will go to Lexington to the State Music Contest.

PUBLIC DISCUSSION CLUB

SPONSOR	Miss Harris
PRESIDENT	Bennett Rector
VICE-PRESIDENT	Alvin Huff
SECRETARY-TREASURER	Knox McGiboney
REPORTER	Thelma Healy

The purpose of the eleven members of the Public Discussion Club is to discuss both national and international affairs and to help the members to become more conversant with the events of the world. Each member is allowed to express his individual opinion on current problems, and to enter into debate upon the more important questions which engage the attention of the public mind.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

SPONSOR Miss Doak
 PRESIDENT Dorothy Judy
 VICE-PRESIDENT Bert Paynter
 SECRETARY-TREASURER Virginia Huff

The National Honor Society is an organization of students who represent the upper third of their class in scholarship, who show tendencies of leadership in their school activities, whose character is all that is most desirable for the model young American, and who shows a desire to serve his community, school, fellow-beings and God. Sixteen new members were initiated this year—ten Seniors and six Juniors.

BAND

DIRECTOR	V. T. Medcalf
DRUM MAJOR	Gaius Whitfield
SPONSOR	Jane Mars

The Middlesboro School Band is composed of sixty members. It is directed by Mr. V. T. Medcalf, who reorganized it in 1933 with only about twenty-five members. The band won the championship last year in the "B" class in the district of Southeastern Kentucky. This year the band is playing for the contest number of the "B" class, the "Intermezzo" from the "L'Arleziennne" by George Bizet. Each year the band is represented in the Kentucky Band Clinic at Louisville; this year twelve members were there. In the District Contest in Pineville, the Band was rated "superior" and tied Harlan. Both bands will go to the State Music Contest in Lexington. The three singers were Misses Ruth Castle, Hansel Minton and Frances Huff.

JOURNALISM CLUB

SPONSOR	Mrs. VanBeber
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF	Jack Pearl
NEWS EDITOR	Mitzi Bosworth
SPORTS EDITOR	Jerome Henson
SOCIETY EDITOR	Mary Florence Ramsey

The Journalism Club, founded in 1934, prepares school news for the local papers each week. The purpose is to try to give the high school students an idea of preparing and publishing news. There have been some very favorable results as seen by the contributions in each paper donated by the various members of the club.

DRAMATICS

SPONSOR—MISS TOLMAN

The Dramatics Club which has been a thriving activity for the past several years, has upheld its reputation again this year. This club meets every Monday and Wednesday, putting into practice on the stage on Monday that which has been learned in the Wednesday class. The Dramatics Club is very beneficial to the students, inasmuch as it bestows upon them the gift of stage presence and poise. Under the leadership of Miss Tolman, noteworthy results have been accomplished.

BOYS' GLEE CLUB

DIRECTOR—MISS HUBBARD

The Boys' Glee Club came in second in the Music Contest in Pineville. They sang "Keep in the Middle of the Road." Charles Farmer won the bass solo and Eugene Ramsey won the baritone solo. Billy Covey came second in the tenor solo. Middlesboro's male quartet won first place, being represented by Hansford Enix, Billy Covey, Eugene Ramsey, and Charles Farmer. The mixed octet came second—the boys' half being composed of Billy Covey, Bud Farmer, Fred Lipps, and Charles Farmer. Both Glee Clubs strive to teach every member to enjoy, appreciate and render good music.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

DIRECTOR—MISS HUBBARD

The thirty-six girls in the Glee Club came second in the District Music Contest. Their number was "Jubilate" by Kzerulf. The mixed chorus, singing "Sourwood Mountain," also placed second. Hansel Minton sang the mezzo soprano solo and Jane Mars won second place in the alto solo. The girls' trio, Mildred Williams, Christine Harris, and Mary Harmon Wilson, also entered the contest. Virginia Costanzo, Nancy Lee Chandler, Esther Stern, and Geneace Anderson composed the girls' half of the mixed octet, which came second. The mixed quartet—Dorothy Jean Hoe, Hansel Minton, Hansford Enix and Charles Farmer came in third in the contest.

GIRLS' CHORUS

DIRECTOR—MISS HUBBARD

The Girls' Chorus is made up of over a hundred girls from the high school. This group of well trained girls acts as a reserve for the Glee Club from whom the next year's Glee Club members are chosen. They have no part in the district music festival, but appear on the concert program.
